

Board of Management

Esther Hughes

I was born in London but I've lived in Argyll since meeting my husband in 2012. I have been an ACHA tenant since 2014. I joined the board of management because I enjoyed the discussions at the Tenants' Conferences. I also enjoyed reading ACHA policies when they were being reviewed as part of policy consultations.

I have worked in several job roles over the past 15 years - mostly in customer service, retail, and admin roles. My interest in volunteering started at Sunday School as a teenager and it's always reminded local ever since. I've previously volunteered at Historic Kilmun and Inveraray Baby & Toddlers Group.

Housing is the shelter that contributes to our health, opportunities, and wellbeing. The reason why I'm enthusiastic about housing is because when my dad died suddenly, my great-uncle paid the rent arrears. My great-uncle's help prevented my mum, siblings, and myself from being homeless.

I will contribute my expertise to the board so ACHA continues in its goals.
