

Ian McIntyre

Ian McIntyre, Oban (Previously; Dartford, Kent, England)
Chair of the Audit Committee

I'm a long time/lifelong doubter of there being any social benefits in the private ownership of homes (Property) and land. I was part of the first trench of tenants into/of the new builds in Glenshellach, Oban (2014) and watched this development come to its completion. Being a keen believer of bring change from within I immediately became a share holder in the Association (ACHA) and "Your Voice" which during my tenure received an award from SHARE (I think it was them). Joined the local Area Committee then became chair and so joined the "Board of Management". Pet dislikes the incorrect (My perceived) use of acronyms and spreadsheets although agree used properly a great tool for the imparting information.

A large part of my working life it could be said has been in information dissemination and retrieval in the areas of Broadcasting and Photojournalism as well as to lesser extent Retail working both as a corporate employee and freelance, large and small businesses.

A major interest of mine is in historic transport. I've spent time helping preserve a wooden Essex Oyster Smack and sailed it in/on the Thames estuary even under competition. While it was at Chatham Historic Dockyard, I helped out with the preservation of a Sunderland Flying-boat and in the production of Peter Smith's book "The Last Flying Boat ML814 -Islander" Now, the flying boat is homed out in Florida USA. I follow F1, Moto-GP, Manchester United, Americas Cup (ENOS Britannia) as well as being a member of "The Campaign for Real Ales" (CAMRA)

Best contact me via email as now days seldom answer a call unless the number is in the address book.